PSALM 132 - Ninehouse - 2

6. The LORD has once to David sworn an oath from which he will not turn:
“There will to you a child be born,
a son who from your line will spring,
whom on your throne I’ll set as king.
7. “If then your sons in faith uphold
my covenant, made in days of old,
and keep the laws that I unfold,
I to their offspring shall pass on your kingdom’s everlasting throne.”
8. For Zion, by all men admired,
the LORD has chosen and acquired
and for his resting place desired:
“Jerusalem is founded well;
for evermore I here will dwell.
9. “On her I will my blessings shed.
Abundantly will she be fed;
I’ll satisfy her poor with bread.
Her priests I’ll with salvation dress;
her saints will shout with happiness.
10. “There I will cause, in David’s line,
a horn to sprout, a lamp to shine
for my anointed as a sign.
His enemies I clothe with shame,
but him I crown with lustrous fame.”
